The authors concerned in this little book have planned out a method of education, very different from what has hitherto been offered to the publick; and more agreeable, and better adapted to the tender capacities of children than any thing I have seen. The extream novelty of their design, the diminutive size, and the dress in which it appears, may, perhaps, make some people look on it with an eye of contempt; but, I think, merit in every garb should be countenanced, and wisdom be cherished in whatever form it may present itself. Had nobody deviated from the beaten path, we mould...
