Excerpt: . . . to the task of transmitting an influence, which, in some mysterious way, yet manifestly, seems to be connected with the nervous and vital forces. In some old systems of physiology leach part of the body had its separate spirits: there were the spirits of the knees, the spirits of the feet, and c. Could we adopt so fanciful a notion, we should say that the spirits of the hand are particularly potent. After the eye, the fingers seem to enjoy a fuller share of the sentient and motory power than any other part of the body. Seldom are they at rest, seldom are their functions suspended. The marvels of the painters, sculptors, musicians skill depend upon their agency. Apart from their recording powers, the headwork of the poet and philosopher would be vain: to them belong all the triumphs of architecture, all the splendid results...
