This means that the foot was more or less checked in extension and dragged along, with a resultant closing up of entire separation between the feet crosswise. Besides this we have a peculiar toeing in of the foot carrying the toe weight, which is in part due to the direction of off hind foot. Such an inward direction of the near fore, or rather such a direction to the opposite side of its normal direction, makes the total result doubly faulty. These directions may be entirely due to faulty paring of feet, which is so an essential matter in pointing, and often has been proved so in other experiments more directly under my control. At any rate, we have seen the effect of the weight on near fore, though through other conditions its effect on hind action was...
